

TODD CREEK VILLAGE METROPOLITAN DISTRICT

January 2012

To our residents,

There has been considerable discussion in the news lately regarding concerns related to oil and gas exploration and possible impacts on water supply systems in Colorado.

Todd Creek Village takes those concerns very seriously and is actively monitoring the situation to ensure our water supplies are protected and that water quality is not compromised. We are staying informed regarding developments and proposed rule making at both the local and State level.

Todd Creek Village tests water quality at the treatment plant and at various places throughout the District. We have experienced NO indicators of contamination that would be associated with oil and gas exploration. Our water is safe and we work diligently to keep it that way.

If you would like more information regarding oil and gas exploration and the concerns raised please follow this link:
